Her Husband, She Says, Beat Her Justice Koch Says the Police Must and Broke Her Nose.

Declares She Served Time for an Offense He Committed.

Andrew A. Hanley, an intelligent and espectable-looking man of forty-eight years, whose picture, however, is in the ogues' Gallery, and who has served a five-years' term in State's prison, is again called to account for his misdeeds.

This time his wife, who is a sad-look woman with a very pretty face. tells a pitiful story. She states that she was married to Hanley about twelve years ago, and that for the past ten years he has compelled her to help him with the "badger game."

She went to the Yorkville Police Court vesterday and told her story with tears for Hanley's arrest on the charge of assault.

She declared that she could not bear the life she was leading any longer.

Bome time ago her husband broke her nose, she says, for refusing to allure a wealthy old man into her room, and last Tuesday another opportunity arose to get another man into the tolls. She refused to do so, and her husband beat her unmercifully.

She told the Justice that at one time to save her husband from going to prison she pleaded guilty to a crime with which he was charged and served nine months in the penitentiary.

He had been so cruel to her, she said, that she thought it high time for her to ask police protection, and have her husband punished for his crimes.

Hanley was arrested at his home, 636 Third avenue, this morning, and his wife was given until this afternoon to procure witnesses to substantiate her story.

ALARMED BY GAS EXPLOSION

House Badly Frightened.

An explosion of gas in the boller and furnace room in the basement of the apartment-house at 117 West Seventyfirst street occurred early this morning, and caused much alarm to the occupants and neighboring residents.

A break in the four-inch street main allowed the gas to escape along the house connection pipe into the basement where it ignited from the furnace fires. The three heavy iron scuttle covers in the sidewalk were blown into the street and the chairs and ladders in the boiler-room were scattered. The thick stone walls of the boiler-room confined the damage to its limits,

MISS HOSMER'S MARRIAGES

Both Babcock and McConnell Wan to Be Divorced.

One man has sued and another says he's going to sue May Hosmer, a star in a travelling theatrical company, now in Michigan, for divorce on the usual statutory grounds.

That sounds funny, but it isn't.

It came about this way: Mr. Babcock, who is now living at 256 West Forty-eighth street, married the charming actress in Jersey City in 1830, and they had one child. He says she left with a hand-somer man last year.

He sued for divorce and got a letter from May Hosmer dated Saginaw, Mich. telling him that the Jersey City marriage was "a farce and a higamy" for which both of them were punishable, as she had never been divorced from A. McConnell, to whom she was married in 1886.

McConnell, to whom she was married in 1886.

This was interesting to McConnell, for his wife, after living in Chicago apart from him for a year, wrote that she had secured a Chicago divorce, and he married again, and lives with his wife at the Hotel Vendome. Now he will also sue the fickle May for absolute divorce and go through a second ceremony with the present Mrs. McConnell.

As for the actress who has made all this trouble, she writes to Babcock:

"I have received almost my death warrant to-night. I am not your wife. You know it. Now do your worst to me. This will cost me my position with this company."

Oct. 25, a little more than five weeks after the marriage, Miss Gerard swore to the complaint, pasing her suit on the statutory grounds. The first knowledge she had of her husband wandering away from his marital yows was during the first week of October, two weeks after the marriage, when she claims he was guilty of many indiscretions in Maryland.

She also makes wholesale charges against him for acts alleged to have been committed between Sept. 19 and the date when she swore to the complaint. It was her first discovery in that the very day after he left her, he transferred his affections to another. Lawyers Friend & House, of the Pulitzer Building, took charge of the suit for Miss Gerard, but how to serve the complaint was a problem. It was decided to give it to the Sheriff of New York County, and the latter had a number of deputies searching in all directions for Harrison Woolfe Williams, Iney failed to find him. Miss Gerard then tried her hand at it herself.

One of the actor's intimate friends was Edward A White, also an actor, of is West Twenty-sixth street, Williams, when in the city, stopped at that house, and his mall was forwarded to him. Mr. White was appealed to and he undertook to watch for Williams, and is the event of his returning to the city, to hand him a copy of it. But Williams, unlike the cat, did not come back.
